According to this study, the global Interdental Cleaning Products market size will reach US$ million by 2031.

Interdental cleaning is the process of the removal of dental plaque or food particles from the space located between the teeth. Carrying out interdental cleaning is necessary because such devices perform cleaning function in areas that are not reachable or can be cleaned by a toothbrush. There are various type of interdental cleaning devices available and some of those are interdental brush, dental floss and tooth picks. It is important to know that a significant portion of the teeth surfaces are beneath the gum line and between the teeth.

It is this interdental area where most plaque gets collected. Even the process of gum inflammation starts in the gum tissue in the interdental area. Hence it is important to clean this interdental area to ensure that the plaque is removed. To achieve this, special instruments and devices such as interdental brushes and floss are used. With the aid of such kind of interdental devices, oral problems like inflammation of the gums, cavities and bad breath are avoided.
