IP PTZ security camera is a network camera with Pan-Tilt-Zoom (PTZ) functionality and transmits video and control signals over an IP network. The PTZ function enables the camera to rotate (Pan and Tilt) horizontally and vertically, as well as zoom (Zoom), to cover a wider surveillance area and capture details. IP PTZ security cameras typically have high-resolution image sensors that provide clear video and images, and are connected to the network, usually via Ethernet. This kind of camera allows remote control and monitoring. Users can remotely operate and adjust the camera through the network or special software to meet different monitoring needs. IP PTZ security cameras are usually used in places that require flexible monitoring, such as large buildings, parking lots, campuses, public squares, etc., providing an efficient and reliable monitoring solution.
