Abstracts

The global Legal Outsourcing market size is predicted to grow from US$ 15281 million in 2025 to US$ 21991 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.4% from 2026 to 2032.

Legal outsourcing, also known as legal process outsourcing (LPO), refers to the practice of law firms, corporate legal departments, or government agencies entrusting non-core or repetitive legal work to external professional service providers. Its core purpose is to integrate external professional resources to reduce costs, improve efficiency, and acquire specific legal expertise that may be lacking internally. Common outsourcing providers include specialized legal outsourcing companies, alternative legal service providers (ALSPs), and specific law firms. This practice allows the client to focus limited internal resources on core strategies and decision-making, achieving optimized allocation of legal functions.

The legal outsourcing market has broad prospects and is deeply integrating towards specialization, technology, and globalization. On the one hand, enterprises' continuous pursuit of cost reduction and efficiency improvement, as well as the increasing complexity of global legal affairs, are the core driving forces behind market growth. On the other hand, advanced technologies such as artificial intelligence and machine learning are being deeply integrated to automate tasks such as document review, legal research, and electronic evidence collection. This greatly improves the efficiency and accuracy of outsourcing services and promotes their expansion into higher-value areas of analysis and decision-making.
