LIFO (Last In, First Out) pallet racking system is a type of warehouse storage system that enables the loading and retrieval of pallets in a stack based on the 'last in, first out' principle. In a LIFO system, the last pallet loaded on top is the first one to be retrieved from the stack. It is ideal for goods that have a limited shelf life or where the order of storage is not critical. LIFO pallet racking systems maximize storage capacity by eliminating the need for aisles between racks.
