Litigation Hold Software (also called Legal Hold Software) is a specialized e-discovery tool that automates and manages the preservation of electronically stored information (ESI) when litigation, investigation, or regulatory inquiry is imminent or ongoing. Its core goal is to prevent spoliation, maintain defensible audit trails, and ensure compliance with preservation obligations.

The global market for Litigation Hold Software is a rapidly growing, dynamic segment within the broader eDiscovery and legal technology landscape. Driven by escalating data volumes, stringent regulatory requirements, and the high cost of compliance failures, the market is shifting from a reactive legal tool to a proactive strategic necessity. Key growth is fueled by cloud adoption, the rise of collaborative work applications, and increasing awareness of cyber-security and data privacy laws. The market is characterized by a mix of specialized eDiscovery vendors, integrated legal suites, and large IT governance platforms, with North America leading and EMEA & Asia-Pacific emerging as high-growth regions.
