Some of the future market trends of managed live chat service are:

Increasing demand from emerging markets: The growing population, urbanization, and industrialization in developing countries such as China, India, Brazil, and South Africa will create more opportunities for the managed live chat service market. These countries will require more managed live chat service for their healthcare, food processing, manufacturing, and construction sectors.

Rising adoption of cloud-based managed live chat service: The COVID-19 pandemic has accelerated the shift to remote work and online collaboration among businesses. This will boost the demand for cloud-based managed live chat service that allows businesses to monitor their live chat function in a web browser without installing any software or hardware. Cloud-based managed live chat service also offers scalability, security, and cost-effectiveness benefits.

Development of AI-powered features: The increasing complexity and diversity of customer inquiries will encourage the managed live chat service providers to develop more AI-powered features that can enhance the productivity and quality of live chat. For example, some features may include data analysis, recommendation, generation, testing, debugging, and refactoring using machine learning and natural language processing techniques.
