Abstracts

The global Marine Cement market size is predicted to grow from US$ 1064 million in 2025 to US$ 1248 million in 2031; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 2.7% from 2025 to 2031.

Marine cement, also known as hydraulic cement, is a type of cement specifically formulated for use in marine environments or underwater applications. It is designed to set and harden even when submerged in water, making it suitable for various construction and repair projects in or near water bodies, such as ports, bridges, dams, and marine structures.

According to the Japan Cement Association, Japan's cement industry emitted about 40 million tons of carbon dioxide in 2020. And the cement industry became the fourth largest source of carbon dioxide emissions in the industrial sector after electricity, steel and chemicals. 60% of the cement industry's carbon emissions come from process emissions, 35% from combustion emissions and 5% from indirect emissions from electricity. According to our "Building Materials Research Institute", the global clinker capacity in 2022 was about 3.55 billion tons, and the global cement production was about 4.0 billion tons. According to the National Bureau of Statistics, China's cumulative cement output reached 2.118 billion tons in 2022.
