Abstracts

The global Medical Express Service market size is predicted to grow from US$ 1806 million in 2025 to US$ 3206 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 8.7% from 2026 to 2032.

Medical Express Service is a time-critical, specialized logistics solution within the medical supply chain, designed for ultra-fast delivery of urgent, life-saving, or time-sensitive medical items—such as emergency pharmaceuticals, diagnostic samples, surgical equipment, or critical medical devices—with strict adherence to healthcare safety, temperature control, and regulatory standards. It prioritizes minimizing delivery time (typically same-hour, 2-hour, same-day, or next-flight-out for cross-regional/global) while maintaining the integrity of medical cargo, serving as the emergency arm of medical supply delivery for healthcare facilities, patients, and public health systems.

Distinct from regular medical supplies delivery (which focuses on scheduled, bulk, or routine shipments) and general courier express, medical express service is tailored exclusively to healthcare's urgent needs: it combines express logistics speed with medical-grade handling (e.g., cold chain, sterile packaging, HAZMAT compliance) and 24/7 operational capacity for emergencies like trauma care, pandemic outbreaks, or last-minute surgical needs.

United States market for Medical Express Service is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million by 2032, at a CAGR of % from 2026 through 2032.

China market for Medical Express Service is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million by 2032, at a CAGR of % from 2026 through 2032.

Europe market for Medical Express Service is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million by 2032, at a CAGR of % from 2026 through 2032.

Global key Medical Express Service players cover DHL, UPS, LogistiCare, FedEx, CEVA Logistics, etc. In terms of revenue, the global two largest companies occupied for a share nearly % in 2025.
