Molded hook tape, also known as molded hook fastener, is a type of fastening system commonly used in applications where strong and secure attachment is required. It consists of a strip of synthetic material, typically made of nylon or polyester, with molded hook-shaped projections on one side.

The molded hook tape is designed to be used in conjunction with loop tape, which has a surface covered in tiny loops that interlock with the hooks. When pressed together, the hooks and loops create a secure and reusable fastening closure.

Molded hook tape offers several advantages over traditional hook and loop fasteners. The molded hooks provide a stronger grip and are more resistant to wear and tear, making them suitable for high-stress applications. The tape is also designed to prevent snagging and lint buildup, allowing for smoother and more reliable fastening. Molded hook tape is used in a wide range of industries, including apparel, footwear, sports equipment, automotive, and medical, among others, for applications such as closures, straps, and fastening systems.
