The global Monochrome Ribbon market size is predicted to grow from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of %from 2026 to 2032.

A monochrome ribbon is a type of printer ribbon used in ID card printers to produce single-color prints on ID cards. It contains a single panel of color dye or resin, usually in black, but can also come in other colors like red, blue, green, or white. Monochrome ribbons are often used for printing text, barcodes, or simple graphics on ID cards and are cost-effective for applications that do not require full-color printing.

The industry trend of monochrome ribbons is moving towards enhanced durability and sustainability. There is a growing demand for eco-friendly and longer-lasting monochrome ribbon materials, as well as innovations in ribbon technology that improve print quality and reduce waste. Additionally, there is an increasing adoption of RFID-enabled monochrome ribbons, which provide added security features and integration capabilities for ID card applications.
