The global Multi-family and HOA Property Management Software market size is predicted to grow from US$ 2720 million in 2025 to US$ 3955 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.6% from 2026 to 2032.

Multi-family and HOA property management software refers to specialized digital platforms designed to manage the operations of apartment communities, multi-family residential properties, and homeowners associations. These systems typically integrate functions such as resident and owner management, rent and fee collection, accounting and budgeting, maintenance work order tracking, community communication, and compliance documentation. Often delivered as cloud-based solutions with mobile access, such software enables centralized control, real-time data visibility, and collaboration among property managers, boards, and residents, improving operational efficiency and service quality.

The market is driven by ongoing urbanization and the growing stock of multi-family residential properties, which increase operational complexity and make manual or fragmented management approaches inefficient. Property management companies and HOA boards are placing greater emphasis on cost control, financial transparency, and regulatory compliance, accelerating the adoption of digital management solutions. In addition, the widespread adoption of cloud computing and mobile technologies has reduced implementation barriers and enhanced remote management and real-time communication. Rising expectations from owners and residents for online payments, transparent information access, and faster service response further support the continued growth of multi-family and HOA property management software.

Americas is the main market of Multi-family and HOA Property Management Software, which occupied 1/3 of the market. The market share of Asia-Pacific will increase rapidly. The key players are Yardi Systems, RealPage, MRI Software, Entrata, AppFolio and so on. Among them, Yardi Systems and RealPage are the leaders, with marketshare of 18.66% and 14.10% respectively.
