A multifunctional nursing care bed is a type of medical bed that is designed to provide a range of functions to support the needs of patients who require ongoing care. These beds are typically powered by electricity and can be adjusted electronically to meet the specific needs of the patient. Multifunctional nursing care beds typically include a variety of features, such as the ability to adjust the height of the bed, the angle of the head and foot sections, and the position of the side rails. In addition to these basic functions, multifunctional nursing care beds may also include features such as built-in scales for monitoring the patient's weight, integrated alarms to alert caregivers of potential problems, and pressure-relieving surfaces to reduce the risk of bed sores. In 2025, global Multifunctional Nursing Care Bed production reached approximately 3543 k units, with an average global market price of around 800 US$/Unit. The production capacity of Multifunctional Nursing Care Bed reaches 4700 k units, and the industry's gross profit margin is approximately between 25% and 45%.

The market for multifunctional nursing beds has seen continuous growth in recent years, primarily driven by global population aging, an increase in patients with chronic diseases, and rising demand for long-term care. Hospitals, rehabilitation centers, and elderly care facilities are increasingly demanding higher standards for patient comfort, safety, and care efficiency, fueling rapid growth in demand for electric, multifunctional, and intelligent nursing beds. The increasing number of long-term bedridden patients has also driven the widespread adoption of features such as pressure ulcer prevention, automatic turning, position adjustment, and vital sign monitoring to reduce the intensity of care and improve patient recovery. Simultaneously, the shortage of medical resources and nursing staff has prompted medical institutions to accelerate the introduction of intelligent nursing equipment, improving the automation and informatization of nursing care. The development of home healthcare and home-based elderly care trends has also driven the growth in demand for home-use electric nursing beds and remote health monitoring functions. With the increasing application of IoT, sensor, and AI technologies in medical and nursing equipment, multifunctional nursing beds are continuously upgrading towards intelligent networking, data-driven management, precision care, and high-end rehabilitation assistance.
