Nail glue removers are essential tools in the nail industry, used to remove stubborn residue from nail tips, rhinestone embellishments, or custom nail polish. These products are typically highly effective, safe, and residue-free, quickly breaking down glue molecules while ensuring zero damage to the nail surface and skin. High-end glue removers utilize advanced technology in nail salons, such as the ability to precisely identify target substances, avoiding accidental damage to the nail structure and ensuring accurate matching and efficient removal with every use.

The main components of nail glue removers include:

Acetone: The most commonly used and highly effective remover, quickly dissolving cyanoacrylates (502 glue, nail tip glue).

Ethyl acetate, butyl acetate: Mild solvents with less odor.

Acetone + ethyl lactate/turpentine blend: Commonly used in professional glue removers, balancing speed and gentleness.

Acetone-free formulas: Primarily based on alcohols and esters, gentler but slower.

In 2025, global sales of nail glue remover reached 135 million units, with a production capacity of approximately 180 million units. The average selling price was US$2.2 per unit, and the average gross profit margin was 35%-45%.
