The global Near-Space Balloon Tourism market size is predicted to grow from US$ 196 million in 2025 to US$ 1392 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 31.1% from 2026 to 2032.

Near-Space Balloon Tourism refers to a commercial aerospace activity that utilizes high-altitude zero-pressure or super-pressure balloons, carrying a pressurized capsule, to transport passengers to 'near space'—typically at altitudes between 20 and 50 kilometers above sea level. Unlike traditional rocket-based space tourism, balloon-based travel features a gentle, slow ascent without the physiological strain of high G-forces. During the multi-hour flight, passengers can observe the thin blue line of the Earth's atmosphere, the profound darkness of outer space, and the distinct curvature of the Earth's horizon. While it does not reach the Kármán line (100 km), it operates above 99% of the Earth's atmosphere, offering a serene and accessible 'quasi-space' experience.
