Market Drivers

1. Recyclability and circular-packaging regulation

Steel and aluminum can be collected, separated and recycled through established metal-recycling systems. The EU Packaging and Packaging Waste Regulation requires packaging to be designed for recyclability and targets economically viable recyclability by 2030, improving the relative positioning of mono-material metal packaging.

2. Growth in personal-care aerosols

Deodorants, antiperspirants, hair sprays, shaving foams, dry shampoos, sun-care products and body sprays benefit from controlled dispensing, hygiene and portability. Personal care and household care together represented more than three-quarters of European aerosol production, illustrating their central role in aerosol-can demand.

3. Convenience and controlled dispensing

Aerosol systems provide consistent dosing, fine spray, foam or gel dispensing, limited product contact and easy one-handed use. These characteristics are difficult to duplicate with conventional open cans or jars.
