Non-medical boxed nitrile gloves are a type of protective equipment widely used for daily protection and light industrial operations. They are made of nitrile rubber as the main material. They have excellent oil resistance and chemical barrier properties. At the same time, because they do not contain latex protein, they are particularly suitable for people with latex allergies. In addition, the gloves fit the hand well and have good elasticity, which can meet the needs of flexibility and comfort for delicate work. The surface may be designed with micro-texture to enhance grip.
