?-crystal PPR pipe is a high-performance plastic pipe made of ?-crystal polypropylene random copolymer (?-PPR). By introducing ?-crystal nucleating agent into polypropylene, it is induced to form a hexagonal crystal structure (?-crystal) during the cooling process, thereby significantly improving the material's heat resistance, pressure resistance, creep resistance and impact resistance. Compared with traditional ?-crystal PPR pipes, ?-crystal PPR pipes can withstand higher working pressures at the same wall thickness, or achieve thinner wall thickness and larger inner diameter at the same pressure level, improving circulation efficiency. Its long-term service life can reach more than 50 years, and it is widely used in hot and cold water transportation, HVAC systems and industrial fluid pipelines under high temperature and high pressure environments.

United States market for ?-crystal PPH Pipe is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million by 2031, at a CAGR of % from 2025 through 2031.
