The global Offsite Records Management and Document Storage Services market size is predicted to grow from US$ 4431 million in 2025 to US$ 6358 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.4% from 2026 to 2032.

Offsite records management and document storage involve physically moving physical records or digital data to a specialized third-party facility, which is physically separate from a business's primary location, to provide secure, cost-effective, and compliant management of business documents and data throughout their lifecycle.

The offsite records management and document storage service market has seen continuous growth in recent years, primarily driven by the rapid expansion of enterprise data and archives, stricter regulatory compliance requirements, and increased demand for digital transformation. Industries such as finance, healthcare, law, government, and manufacturing require long-term preservation of contracts, financial, human resources, audit, and operational records, leading to increasingly stringent requirements for secure storage, rapid retrieval, and long-term retention management. As data privacy protection, information security, and audit regulatory standards continue to improve, more and more companies are choosing to outsource document storage and record management to professional service providers to reduce operating costs and compliance risks. Rising office space costs and the increasing prevalence of hybrid work models are also driving demand for off-site archive hosting, digital scanning, and cloud-based record management. At the same time, increased awareness of disaster recovery and business continuity management has led to the rapid development of high-security warehouses, off-site disaster recovery, and long-term archive preservation services. The development of OCR recognition, AI-powered intelligent retrieval, automated archiving, and digital management technologies is further propelling the industry towards intelligent, integrated, and data-driven upgrades.
