Abstracts

The global Onward Ticket Service market size is predicted to grow from US$ 700 million in 2025 to US$ 990 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.1% from 2026 to 2032.

To address the problems of cumbersome ticketing procedures, information asymmetry leading to delays, and inconvenient travel connections during transfers, onward ticketing services have emerged. Since the widespread adoption of electronic tickets and online ticketing systems in the early 21st century, the transportation ticketing sector has experienced significant development. Currently, onward ticketing services have evolved into a comprehensive service encompassing online self-service onward travel, offline connecting ticketing, and seamless multimodal transport transfers. Widely used in railway transportation, civil aviation transfers, and long-distance road passenger transport, these services significantly improve ticketing efficiency and passenger travel experience.

The onward ticketing service market is currently undergoing a critical transformation from 'intelligentization to cloud-based services.' Driven by policy, technology, and demand, companies need to focus on differentiated functions (such as AI unlocking and professional services), cultivate vertical scenarios (such as enterprise equipment management and government security scenarios), and build an ecological cooperation network to cope with homogeneous competition and technological iteration challenges, and achieve sustainable development.
