OSS focuses on network management, ensuring the smooth operation, administration, maintenance, and provisioning of telecommunications networks. It includes functionalities like network inventory, service assurance, and fault management. BSS, on the other hand, deals with the business aspects, such as customer relationship management, order processing, billing, and revenue management. Together, OSS and BSS solutions facilitate the efficient delivery of services, from technical performance to customer interactions and financial transactions, ensuring seamless end-to-end service management.

The OSS (Operations Support Systems) and BSS (Business Support Systems) solution market is experiencing significant growth, driven by the increasing demand for efficient network management and customer service operations in the telecommunications sector.
