Abstracts

The global Outsourced Helpdesk Service market size is predicted to grow from US$ 757 million in 2025 to US$ 1168 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 6.5% from 2026 to 2032.

An outsourced helpdesk service (OHS) involves an enterprise outsourcing its internal information technology (IT) support functions to a third-party professional service provider. This service serves as a single point of contact, resolving various technical issues for end users, such as software usage, hardware failures, password resets, and network connectivity. Services are typically delivered through multiple channels, including phone, email, online chat, and a self-service portal. Its core value lies in leveraging the external provider's expertise, standardized processes, and economies of scale to improve support quality and efficiency at manageable costs. Essentially, it represents a key strategic decision for enterprises to optimize resource allocation and enhance the professionalism of IT service management.
