PE (polyethylene) coated paper packaging is a versatile and widely used material in the packaging industry, combining the strength and printability of paper with the moisture and grease resistance of polyethylene. This type of packaging is commonly used for a variety of products, including food items, beverages, and consumer goods, due to its excellent barrier properties that protect contents from external elements. The coating process involves applying a thin layer of polyethylene to the paper, enhancing its durability and making it suitable for high-speed packaging operations. Additionally, PE coated paper is often favored for its recyclability and relatively low environmental impact compared to other packaging materials, as advancements in recycling technologies allow for the separation and recovery of both paper and polyethylene components.

The global PE Coated Paper Packaging market size is projected to grow from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million in 2030; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of % from 2024 to 2030.
