Budgeting software can make it simple and easy to keep on top of your finances, whether you're saving for wealth management or looking to manage your debts. The advantage of budgeting is that it look at your daily spend, so you can really see where your costs and your savings can be made. This is especially as it is the small but regular miscellaneous costs that can really undermine your finances, and can be missed by general finance software, which can be targeted more at general costs and managing those.
