Abstracts

The global Pet Euthanasia Services market size is predicted to grow from US$ 133 million in 2025 to US$ 280 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 11.4% from 2026 to 2032.

Pet euthanasia services refer to the centralized, standardized, and traceable disposal of pet remains after death, in accordance with environmental protection, animal disease prevention, and urban management regulations. The core objective is to prevent the spread of pathogens, environmental pollution, and public health risks. This service is typically provided by qualified organizations, and disposal methods include high-temperature incineration, biodegradation, or centralized transportation. It includes procedures such as remains collection, refrigerated storage, disinfection, disease prevention, and processing certificates. Primarily targeting urban pet owners, veterinary hospitals, and public management departments, it is the most fundamental and regulatory mandated link in the pet funeral and end-of-life care system.

With people's growing emotional needs for their pets and the rapid development of the pet economy, pet burial services are becoming increasingly diversified, personalized, and specialized. More and more pet owners are prioritizing their pets' afterlife, driving the industry's expansion from simple cremation to customized memorial services, eco-friendly burials, and digital memorial platforms. At the same time, policies are gradually standardizing the handling of animal remains, providing support for legalized and standardized operations. In the future, pet burial services are expected to become a niche sector within the pet industry with both emotional value and commercial potential.
