Pet food refers to any commercially prepared food intended for consumption by pets, such as dogs, cats, birds, fish, and small mammals. These foods are specifically formulated to meet the nutritional needs of different types of pets, considering factors like species, age, size, and health conditions. Pet supplements are additional nutritional products provided to pets alongside their regular diet to support their overall health and well-being. These supplements often contain vitamins, minerals, herbs, or other dietary ingredients that may not be present in sufficient quantities in the pet's regular diet. They are typically used to address specific health concerns or to fill nutritional gaps in the pet's diet.

The global Pet Food and Supplement market size is projected to grow from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million in 2030; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of % from 2024 to 2030.
