Abstracts

According to this study, the global Pet Fresh Food Delivery Service market size will reach US$ 965 million by 2031.

The pet fresh food delivery service is a regular cold chain delivery solution for pet owners who focus on scientific feeding. It customizes freshly prepared nutritious meals according to the individual needs of pets, uses human-grade meat, seasonal fruits and vegetables, and functional ingredients, uses low-temperature technology to lock in freshness and eliminates preservatives. Users can set the recipe through online questionnaires or veterinary advice, and subscribe to automatic delivery on a weekly/monthly basis to ensure that every meal is fresh and safe. This service solves the storage problems and nutrient loss problems of traditional pet food, and is especially suitable for pets with picky eaters, sensitive stomachs, or recovering from surgery. It is becoming a new rigid demand for high-end urban pet owners through convenience and personalization.
