Abstracts

The global Pet Funeral Products market size is predicted to grow from US$ 4087 million in 2025 to US$ 9509 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 13.1% from 2026 to 2032.

Pet funeral products are specialized items and services used for a range of procedures after a pet's death, including body disposal, farewell rites, ash storage, and eco-friendly burial. Originating from the emotional attachment people place on their pets, it has now developed into an increasingly standardized and sizable niche market.

Pets are widely regarded as 'family members' and 'emotional companions.' Over 60% of pet owners consider funerals a 'necessary farewell ceremony.' The increasing number of single-person households and childless couples further strengthens the emotional companionship role of pets, making their 'afterlife arrangements' an emotional necessity.

Pet owners (especially young and middle-class individuals in first- and second-tier cities) possess strong purchasing power and willingness to spend. Their investment in the entire lifecycle of their pets—from birth to death—is continuously increasing, providing a market foundation for professional, high-quality services costing hundreds to thousands of yuan per event.

Services are expanding from basic cremation to include end-of-life care, home transportation, farewell ceremonies, and grief counseling. Simultaneously, diversified options such as customized keepsakes (portraits, derivative jewelry), eco-friendly tree burials, and digital memorials are creating new value growth points.

The popularization of scientific and civilized pet ownership concepts has reduced the improper disposal of remains. Increased environmental awareness has also promoted the acceptance of green burial methods such as biodegradable urns and eco-friendly burials.

Although current regulations are not perfect, some regions have begun to explore industry standards and certification. Companies that take the lead in achieving service transparency and standardization will build brand trust and guide the healthy development of the industry, which is an important future opportunity.
