The global Pet Telemedicine market size is predicted to grow from US$ 691 million in 2025 to US$ 992 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.4% from 2026 to 2032.

Pet telemedicine is a rapidly growing field that enables pet owners to access veterinary care remotely through digital platforms. Using video calls, chat, or dedicated apps, veterinarians can assess pets' health, offer advice, and sometimes diagnose and recommend treatments without the need for an in-person visit. This service is particularly valuable for routine check-ups, behavioral consultations, and follow-ups, making veterinary care more accessible and convenient, especially for those in remote areas or with limited mobility. While it cannot fully replace physical exams for more serious conditions, pet telemedicine enhances the overall accessibility of veterinary services, ensuring pets receive timely care while reducing stress for both pets and owners.
