Abstracts

The global Phone Unlocking Service market size is predicted to grow from US$ 627 million in 2025 to US$ 916 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.6% from 2026 to 2032.

To address the problems of mobile phones becoming unusable due to forgotten passwords or account lockouts, and the complexity and data loss associated with traditional ROM flashing and unbinding procedures, mobile phone unlocking services have emerged. Since the widespread adoption of smartphones and the development of mobile security technology in the early 21st century, the after-sales service and repair of mobile devices has seen significant growth. Currently, mobile phone unlocking services have evolved into a comprehensive service encompassing screen password cracking, account ID removal, and system-level repair, widely used in emergency unlocking for personal users, reset of used devices, and enterprise device management. These services significantly improve the success rate of device unlocking and enhance the convenience of users' digital lives.

The mobile phone unlocking service market is currently undergoing a critical transformation from 'intelligentization' to 'cloudification' to 'service-oriented.' Driven by policy, technology, and demand, companies need to focus on differentiated functions (such as AI unlocking and professional services), cultivate vertical scenarios (such as enterprise device management and government security scenarios), and build an ecological cooperation network to cope with homogeneous competition and the challenges of technological iteration, and achieve sustainable development.
