A Pre-Purchase Marine Survey is a comprehensive evaluation conducted on a vessel before its purchase to assess its overall condition, value, and seaworthiness. This survey is typically carried out by a qualified marine surveyor, who examines the boat's structure, systems, and equipment, including the hull, engines, electrical systems, safety equipment, and more. The goal is to identify any existing or potential issues, estimate repair costs, and determine whether the vessel is a sound investment. The findings from the survey help the buyer make an informed decision and negotiate the purchase price if necessary.
