Abstracts

According to this study, the global Print on Demand Service market size will reach US$ 4757 million by 2031.

Print on Demand Service is a business model driven by customer orders. Merchants first create unique designs for products and upload them to the POD platform. When customers place orders on the merchant's online store, the POD company is responsible for the production, packaging and direct delivery of the products. The entire process does not require merchants to hold inventory in advance, thereby reducing operational risks. It is particularly suitable for low-cost online businesses.
