The global Quality Management System Certification Service market size is predicted to grow from US$ 14734 million in 2025 to US$ 22488 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 6.4% from 2026 to 2032.

Quality management system certification services refer to the professional service process by which a qualified third-party certification body audits, evaluates, and certifies a company's established and implemented quality management system according to international or national standards. This service typically includes document review, on-site audits, ongoing surveillance audits, and recertification, aiming to verify whether a company possesses standardized, systematic, and continuously improving quality management capabilities throughout the entire product or service process, thereby enhancing organizational operational efficiency, reducing quality risks, and strengthening customer trust and market competitiveness. Essentially, it is a professional service combining ?compliance certification + management consulting + audit surveillance,? and is a crucial infrastructure for modern enterprise quality governance and international trade.

Against the backdrop of global supply chain restructuring, rising trade standards, and accelerated enterprise digital transformation, the demand for quality management system certification services continues to grow. On the one hand, more and more companies must obtain ISO and other standard certifications to meet customer and regulatory requirements in order to enter international markets or participate in large supply chain systems; on the other hand, the rise of ESG (Environmental, Social, and Governance) concepts and the promotion of various industry standards have extended certification services from single quality management to comprehensive multi-system certification. Simultaneously, the development of digital auditing, remote certification, and data-driven auditing technologies is improving certification efficiency and reducing costs. In the future, the industry will gradually upgrade from 'compliance-driven' to 'value-driven', becoming an important support for corporate management improvement and global competition, and possessing steady growth potential.
