The report requires updating with new data and is sent in 48 hours after order is placed.

According to our (LP Info Research) latest study, the global Receivables Supply Chain Finance market size was valued at US$ million in 2022. With growing demand in downstream market and recovery from influence of COVID-19 and the Russia-Ukraine War, the Receivables Supply Chain Finance is forecast to a readjusted size of US$ million by 2029 with a CAGR of % during review period.

The research report highlights the growth potential of the global Receivables Supply Chain Finance market. With recovery from influence of COVID-19 and the Russia-Ukraine War, Receivables Supply Chain Finance are expected to show stable growth in the future market. However, product differentiation, reducing costs, and supply chain optimization remain crucial for the widespread adoption of Receivables Supply Chain Finance. Market players need to invest in research and development, forge strategic partnerships, and align their offerings with evolving consumer preferences to capitalize on the immense opportunities presented by the Receivables Supply Chain Finance market.

Receivables Supply Chain Finance (SCF) is a financing solution initiated by the buyer where the buyer agrees to pay an invoice early for a discount. The benefit to the buyer is a discount on the invoice price. The benefit to the supplier is that they receive payment sooner and at a lower interest rate than what they would normally get from a bank or a factor.

SCF is also known as reverse factoring, because unlike traditional factoring where a supplier sells its receivables at a discount to a third party (a factor) for early payment,

SCF is initiated by the buyer and the supplier retains ownership of the receivables until they are paid by the buyer.

SCF involves three parties: the buyer, the supplier, and a financier or factor. The financier or factor provides the funding for the early payment of the invoices and charges a fee based on the credit risk of the buyer. The financier or factor may also provide other services such as managing and administering the accounts receivable, covering for bad debts, and providing access to an electronic platform for SCF transactions
