The global Recombinant Human Transforming Growth Factor-? market size is predicted to grow from US$ 1702 million in 2025 to US$ 2738 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 7.2% from 2026 to 2032.

Recombinant human transforming growth factor-? is a biologically active protein produced by genetic engineering technology. It simulates the function of transforming growth factor-? naturally present in the human body and participates in regulating biological processes such as cell proliferation, differentiation and immune response. It is characterized by high specificity and activity, which can effectively promote cell growth and tissue repair; it has strong controllability during the production process and can be prepared on a large scale to meet clinical and scientific research needs; at the same time, due to its recombinant nature, it avoids the potential risks of animal-derived products. The advantage is that rh-TGF-? provides a new biological drug for clinical treatment, which is used to promote wound healing, treat inflammation and certain diseases, and has important medical value and broad application prospects.

United States market for Recombinant Human Transforming Growth Factor-? is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million by 2032, at a CAGR of % from 2026 through 2032.
