Resorbable Collagen Membranes (RCMs) are biodegradable barriers used primarily in dental and orthopedic applications to support tissue regeneration. These membranes are made from natural collagen, which is a major protein component of connective tissues. In dental procedures, such as guided bone regeneration (GBR) and guided tissue regeneration (GTR), RCMs are used to protect bone grafts and promote the growth of new bone and soft tissues by preventing the invasion of surrounding non-desirable cells into the healing site. Over time, the collagen membrane is gradually resorbed by the body, eliminating the need for a second surgical procedure to remove it. RCMs offer several advantages, including biocompatibility, ease of handling, and the ability to integrate with the body's natural healing processes. Their use is expanding in medical fields due to their effectiveness in enhancing the outcomes of regenerative procedures.

The global Resorbable Collagen Membranes (RCM) market size is projected to grow from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million in 2030; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of %from 2024 to 2030.
