Abstracts

The global Ropeless Elevator market size is predicted to grow from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of % from 2026 to 2032.

Ropeless elevators abandon the wire rope traction method of traditional elevators and adopt linear motor drive technology. Linear motors are devices that directly convert electrical energy into mechanical energy of linear motion. They can generate strong thrust along a specific track to drive the elevator car up and down. In the ropeless elevator system, electromagnetic devices are installed at the bottom and top of the car. When the linear motor is powered on, the magnetic field generated interacts with the electromagnetic device on the car to generate upward or downward thrust, allowing the car to run smoothly along the guide rail.

United States market for Ropeless Elevator is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million by 2032, at a CAGR of % from 2026 through 2032.
