Abstracts

The global RPA Consulting and Development Service market size is predicted to grow from US$ 3057 million in 2025 to US$ 4476 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.7% from 2026 to 2032.

RPA Consulting and Development Service refers to a bundle of professional services that help organizations plan, design, build, deploy, and scale Robotic Process Automation (RPA) across their operations as part of a broader intelligent-automation strategy. They then move into solution design, process re-engineering, and governance design (CoE, standards, controls) before development teams configure and test software robots, integrate them with enterprise systems, and orchestrate them in production through run-time platforms and monitoring tools. Mature providers extend this into “hyperautomation”, combining RPA with AI/ML, document understanding, process mining and low-code tools to automate more complex, judgment-heavy workflows. Ongoing managed services typically include bot monitoring, SLA-based support, change management, performance tuning, and continuous pipeline management to keep the automation portfolio aligned with evolving business priorities.
