The global Scroll Pump Sealing Strips market size is predicted to grow from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of % from 2026 to 2032.

In a scroll pump, sealing strips are thin, flexible metal or plastic strips that create a seal between the stationary and rotating scrolls or spiral elements of the pump. This seal is crucial to prevent gas molecules from leaking out of the pump and to maintain a high level of vacuum within the system. The scroll pump sealing strips are typically made of materials such as stainless steel, aluminum, or PTFE (polytetrafluoroethylene). They are designed to be in close contact with the spiral elements to provide an effective seal, while also allowing for some flexibility and movement during operation. During the pumping process, gas molecules are trapped and compressed between the spiral elements and the sealing strips, creating a vacuum as the trapped volume decreases. The sealing strips help to contain the compressed gas within the pump, while preventing any gas leaks which could compromise the effectiveness of the vacuum and create safety hazards.

United States market for Scroll Pump Sealing Strips is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2025 to US$ million by 2032, at a CAGR of % from 2026 through 2032.
