Online Learning is a flexible instructional delivery system that encompasses any kind of learning that takes place via the Internet. Online learning gives educators an opportunity to reach students who may not be able to enroll in a traditional classroom course and supports students who need to work on their own schedule and at their own pace. Secondary Education Online Tutoring can help middle school and high school students learn online courses such as culture and language.

Online tutoring for secondary education is a service that provides subject tutoring and learning support for middle school students through the Internet and online platforms. This education model allows students to communicate and learn in real time with professional teachers or counselors through the Internet at home or anywhere. Online tutoring typically covers a variety of subjects in middle school, such as math, science, language arts, social studies, etc., and provides individualized tutoring based on the student's grade and learning level. Students can book an online course at a specific time and have one-on-one or group interactive learning with the teacher. Such a teaching model provides students with more flexible learning time and place, while saving them the time and energy of traveling to traditional classrooms. In online tutoring in secondary education, teachers usually use video conferencing tools for real-time teaching, sharing teaching materials and drawing boards to better interact with students. Students can learn new concepts, solve problems, complete assignments, and receive instant feedback and assessment with the guidance of teachers.
