The global Ship Protection Agency Services market size is predicted to grow from US$ 3323 million in 2025 to US$ 4851 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.6% from 2026 to 2032.

To address the challenges faced by ships in foreign ports, such as complex legal procedures, language and cultural barriers, and difficulties in handling emergencies, ship protection agency services have emerged. Since their systematic formation in the mid-20th century with the booming development of global maritime trade, the international shipping support services sector has entered a new stage of specialization and networking. Currently, ship protection agency services have developed into a comprehensive service system encompassing legal compliance consulting, port formalities processing, supply chain coordination, maritime dispute resolution, and emergency response. It is widely used in the global port operations of container ships, bulk carriers, tankers, cruise ships, and special-purpose vessels. Through localized professional networks and 24/7 support, it significantly improves ship efficiency in port, ensures compliant operations, and effectively controls risks—a key support profession in the shipping industry.
