Abstracts

According to this study, the global Shipper's Interest Insurance market size will reach US$ 1911 million by 2031.

Shipper's interest insurance is an insurance policy purchased by shippers to protect their financial losses caused by the loss, damage or theft of goods during transportation. Shipper's interest insurance provides broader protection, covering almost all types of damage, without the need to prove the carrier's fault. In the event of an accident, it can minimize financial risks and reduce losses. Its claims process is usually faster and more direct. Shippers do not need to go through the carrier, can better control the results, and get compensation faster and more smoothly, thereby reducing financial risks and giving shippers peace of mind.

United States market for Shipper's Interest Insurance is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million by 2031, at a CAGR of % from 2025 through 2031.

China market for Shipper's Interest Insurance is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million by 2031, at a CAGR of % from 2025 through 2031.

Europe market for Shipper's Interest Insurance is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million by 2031, at a CAGR of % from 2025 through 2031.
