The global Silicone Structural Glass market size is predicted to grow from US$ 1130 million in 2025 to US$ 1478 million in 2031; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 4.6% from 2025 to 2031.

Silicone structural glass is a general term for a high polymer in which silicon atoms and oxygen atoms are alternately linked to form a framework, and different organic groups are linked to silicon atoms. There are not only organic groups but also inorganic structures in the structure of silicone resins. Such unique composition and molecular formula make it combine the characteristics of organic matter and the function of inorganic matter.

According to data from the World Automobile Organization (OICA), global automobile production and sales in 2017 reached their peak in the past 10 years, reaching 97.3 million vehicles and 95.89 million vehicles respectively. In 2018, the global economic expansion ended, and the global auto market declined as a whole. By 2022, there will be 81.6 million cars worldwide. At present, more than 90% of the world's automobiles are concentrated in the three continents of Asia, Europe and North America, of which Asia's automobile production accounts for 56% of the world, Europe accounts for 20%, and North America accounts for 16%. The world's major auto-producing countries include China, the United States, Japan, South Korea, Germany, India, and Mexico; among them, China is the largest auto-producing country in the world, accounting for about 32%.
