Spherical BN (Boron Nitride) Agglomerate refers to a specific form of boron nitride particles that are aggregated or clustered together to form spherical structures. Boron nitride is a synthetic ceramic material known for its unique combination of properties such as excellent thermal stability, high thermal conductivity, good electrical insulation, and low friction coefficient. Spherical agglomerates are created through a process where primary BN particles are fused or bonded together under controlled conditions to create larger, spherical-shaped particles. This form is particularly useful in applications where a uniform dispersion and consistent performance are required, such as in thermal interface materials, lubricants, coatings, and advanced ceramics.

The global Spherical BN Agglomerate market size is projected to grow from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million in 2030; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of % from 2024 to 2030.
