Abstracts

The global Stablecoin-as-a-Service market size is predicted to grow from US$ 440 million in 2025 to US$ 2602 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 29.0% from 2026 to 2032.

Stablecoin-as-a-Service refers to productized, enterprise-facing stablecoin payment and settlement services delivered through APIs, dashboards, and plugins. SCaaS platforms enable merchants, fintechs, and enterprises to accept and send stablecoins (predominantly USD-pegged), automate conversion between stablecoins and fiat, and embed compliance (KYC/KYB, sanctions screening, transaction monitoring) as well as reconciliation and reporting into day-to-day payment operations. The core value proposition is faster settlement and more predictable cross-border costs, particularly for cross-border e-commerce, digital services, B2B trade settlement, and marketplace payouts. The global Stablecoin-as-a-Service market gross margin is estimated at approximately 45%-75% in 2025.

First, stablecoin payments are gradually spilling over from native crypto transactions to enterprise-level settlements and cross-border B2B scenarios. Monthly processing volume is expected to continue rising in 2025, driving Stablecoin-as-a-Service from an 'optional function' to a 'funds routing layer.' Second, the pricing system is evolving from a single acquiring fee rate to a combination of platform fees, tiered fees, and compliance modules. Leading vendors have publicly provided standardized fees and are delivering them at scale via APIs. Third, regulation and licensing are becoming a watershed in competition, with business more likely to concentrate in jurisdictions with clearer regulations. In the Chinese market, for example, business is mainly conducted in compliant environments such as Hong Kong, while the mainland maintains a long-standing high-pressure stance on crypto-related activities.
