The global Study Abroad Services market size is predicted to grow from US$ 25633 million in 2025 to US$ 30989 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 6.7% from 2026 to 2032.

Study abroad services refer to comprehensive support for students who intend to study abroad, including school applications, visa processing, language training, accommodation arrangements, pre-departure guidance, overseas guardianship, etc. Service agencies help students match suitable schools and majors through professional consultation and resource integration, and assist in solving various problems in the process of studying abroad, with the goal of providing students with a safe and efficient channel for studying abroad.

The industry's future is being reshaped, facing short-term challenges but trending towards specialization and refinement in the long term. The traditional 'assembly line' style intermediary service market is shrinking, while demand for precise, transparent, and comprehensive high-end consulting and planning services is growing. As information becomes increasingly symmetrical, the value of simply providing information diminishes. Institutions offering in-depth background enhancement, personalized career planning, cross-cultural adaptation, and post-study services will be more competitive, and the industry as a whole is evolving towards improving service quality and the value of professional advisors.
