Sugar bags are generally made from polypropylene (PP) with an inner lining to protect the stored items in the bags from any type of damage or leakage. The material with which the bag is made is very important as they prevent the products from water and moist atmosphere. These bags are used majorly in the packaging of food products and also for commercial & industrial items. Food items like sugar need to be transported to long distances thus it is very essential that these bags need to be durable and puncture-resistant. Colored Woven sugar bags or striped colored woven bags are being preferred by customers who order these bags in a large quantity.
