The global Swimming Pool Booster Pumps market size is predicted to grow from US$ 526 million in 2025 to US$ 710 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 4.5% from 2026 to 2032.

A swimming pool booster pump is a device specifically designed to increase the speed and pressure of swimming pool water flow, usually used in conjunction with a main circulation pump. Its core function is to enhance water flow power, making pool cleaning systems (such as pressure cleaners) run more efficiently, while improving water circulation uniformity, reducing dead water areas, and improving water quality stability. Booster pumps accelerate water to the target area through centrifugal force or jet principles, and are widely used in large swimming pools, spas and high-end residential swimming pool systems. Modern booster pumps also have functions such as energy saving, quietness, and intelligent control to adapt to diverse swimming pool environments and user needs.

The swimming pool booster pump market is showing a dual-drive trend of intelligence and energy saving. Functions such as the Internet of Things, remote monitoring and automatic speed regulation are gradually integrated to promote product upgrades. At the same time, high-end spas, hotels and residential scenarios drive the growth of high-performance demand, especially in North America and Europe, where the market performance is mature, while the Asia-Pacific region shows broad potential. Head brands continue to expand their market share through mergers and acquisitions and channel integration, while small and medium-sized enterprises urgently need to break through competitive barriers with the help of technology and service differentiation.
