Synthetic Graphite is a man-made substance manufactured by the high temperature processing of amorphous carbon materials. The types of amorphous carbon used as precursors to graphite are many, and can be derived from petroleum, coal, or natural and synthetic organic materials. In some cases graphite can even be manufactured by the direct precipitation of graphitic carbon from pyrolysis of a carbonaceous gas such as acetylene (pyrolytic graphite). One important commonality between all graphite precursors is that they must contain carbon. Graphite is carbon, a specific form of carbon, so it can only be derived from other carbon containing substances. Although Synthetic Graphite can be manufactured from any number of precursor materials, the primary material used to manufacture it in the United States is petroleum coke. As noted above only certain types of carbonaceous feeds are suitable for graphite production. Therefore the petroleum coke used for the Synthetic Graphite industry must be carefully specified to assure it is of the type that will ultimately result in high quality graphitic carbon.

The global Synthetic Graphite market size is projected to grow from US$ 10600 million in 2024 to US$ 17790 million in 2030; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 9.0% from 2024 to 2030.
