In 2025, global sales of tipper trailer vehicles reached approximately 48,000 units, with an average selling price of around $49,000 per unit. These vehicles are designed for transporting bulk materials and feature aluminum alloy cargo bodies, lightweight high-strength steel frames (or hybrid steel-aluminum structures), and hydraulic lifting mechanisms. The upstream supply chain includes providers of high-strength steel, aluminum alloy plates and profiles, hydraulic cylinders, axles, suspension systems, and braking systems, while downstream customers comprise enterprises in construction, mining, agriculture, road engineering, and solid waste transport.
