A touchless vending machine is a micro-market that provides a contactless self-service experience for consumers. Transactions are made solely through the use of a smartphone. Each machine has a unique QR code that users scan which directs them to an app with menu options available at that specific location. They select items using their phone’s touchscreen. Payment can be made directly in the app or on the vending machine’s touchless payment terminal, depending on the model.

The Touchless Vending market is expected to grow as businesses across various sectors adapt to the changing consumer preferences and prioritize hygiene and safety measures.
